Dear Parents/Carers,

Another half term comes to an end this afternoon. Please remember there is no school tomorrow (Friday 15th February) as we have a staff training day.

All of the school dates for the rest of this academic year and next academic year are on the school website under the 'Term Dates' tab.

I would be really grateful if you could spend a few minutes reading the information below about school meals to make sure we all understand the process for ordering.

It was wonderful to see so many parents and carers last Friday afternoon sharing History week activities with the children. There was a huge range of activities going on and the children were working really hard. We hope those of you that could make it enjoyed spending some time with your children in their classes. Thank you for your support.

I hope the children have a great half term break.

Graham Almond - Headteacher
